Program and Program Outline

The current pandemic experience taught us that planning is still a good idea; however, many things and factors can affect our expected outcome. For this reason, the following programs propose flexible content with a stable weekly activity schedule.

The weeks proposed are based on historical information from previous years. A more detailed agenda of activities with names of institutions and courses will be finished and shared with UADE two weeks before the program starts. In no case, we will coordinate two concurrent activities to serve different audiences during the same week. The program's content includes the following:

- a) Educational Activities: these activities consist of visits to institutions if allowed and conversations with practitioners working at those institutions. If the institution's policies do not allow our students to enter their premises, we will meet with the practitioner at another designated and available location or run the session remotely.
- b) Graduation and Welcome Activities: these activities consist of an introductory and wrap-up conversation with the participants at Manhattan College.
- c) Cultural Activities: these activities are optional and have an extra cost for those participating.
